

Our deepest sympathies to all Australians affected by the summer flooding

We have not been able to contact all our clients at this stage to find out if they have been affected by the recent floods in Brisbane.

If you have been, please let us know and we will endeavour to assist in any way possible.

For businesses, the most difficult task ahead is to rebuild your business with the possibility of considerable loss of records, stock and cash flow. There are lots of resources available to plan your recovery and we encourage you to contact us to obtain these details.

We have been offering a Business Financial Health Check at a special price and this was launched in November 2010. We are extending this offer to any of our business clients (or your friends and relatives who have businesses) who have been affected by the floods at a further reduced price to assist those people to get back on their feet and survive.

Unfortunately, many flood affected people may not have insurance cover. To rebuild they may require finance assistance. Please contact us if you or your friends and relatives need finance to rebuild and we will assist in any way possible to arrange finance.

Email newsletters

As our lives are taken over by social media, we are often irritated with the constant bombardment of Facebook updates, emails and internet signals. I understand all of this because I suffer the same burdens. I have employed a strategy to deal with my numerous daily emails. I categorise them and set aside certain times of the day to deal with the different categories. So I have a set time daily to read newsletter emails.

One of the ways we can keep you up to date is by email. Often I wish I could get a "vital news" item out to clients such as a rate rise/fall, a new lending product or new lending policy.

To do this I need your email address. I would appreciate an email from you just to say hello and I will be able to collect your email address.
